Mary took us to the airport and it was so cloudy out and so many terrible accidents on the freeway that we didn't arrive at the airport until ten to nine and the plane was scheduled to leave at nine A.M. Fortunately it couldn't leave until one o'clock so we had breakfast and then went to the U.S.P. room which is a beautiful room reserved for only important people and a beautiful hostess who waited on us and every thing was free so I got my two martinis. The flight over was perfect but since we missed our plane for Kona, daddy was paged at the plane before we got off and then we were told we had complimentary reservations here at the Holiday Inn. Room is air conditioned. Dad is on the phone now calling Kona and then we will go out for dinner. We will be leaving for Kona at nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

When we left Seattle they took us by bus from the airport to Rayne Field in Everett to get the plane. By then the sky was clear and beautiful.

It was really nice having you home for Thanksgiving and I liked Murray very much.

I will write more later.

Love,
Mom.

P.S. Dad just hung up from talking to Phil who is in Kona and we will be staying at the Hilton there.
